

University of Virginia.

The Session of this Institution commences, annually, on the 1st day of October and continues, without interruption, until the 29th of June ensuing.

To be admitted as a student, the applicant must be sixteen years of age, unless for sufficient reasons, the Faculty shall think fit, in particular cases, to dispense with this requirement. If the applicant has been a student at any other incorporated Seminary, he must produce a certificate from such Seminary, or some other satisfactory evidence, of general good conduct.

There is no prescribed curriculum of studies in this institution. Every student may select the schools he will attend, but, in the Academic Department, he is required to attend at least three, unless, upon the written request of his parent or guardian, or for good cause shown, the Faculty shall allow him to attend less than three.

The method of instruction is by lectures and text books, accompanied by daily examinations. The books required can be obtained at bookstores near the University, on reasonable terms.

The organization of the several schools is as follows:

2. Literature.—Spalding's History of English Literature, Bain's English Composition and Rhetoric, Shaw's Outlines of General Literature, Shakspeare's Complete Works, Aiken's British Poets.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

This Department presents some peculiar features, as compared with other American Schools of Medicine. The Session extends, uninterruptedly, through nine months, enabling the Professors to deliver an unusually complete course of Lectures, without obliging the student to attend more than two or three lectures, each day. Another important benefit secured by the protracted term is that the various branches are studied in their natural order, and thus such as require a previous acquaintance with other subjects are reserved until these have been mastered. A searching oral examination, on the topics previously discussed, precedes each lecture. The system thus combines the advantages of teaching by public lectures with those of private tuition.

IX. School of Medicine.—Prof. H. Howard.

The Text Books are as follows: Taylor's Medical Jurisprudence, Meigs' Obstetrics, Flint's Practice of Medicine.

X. School of Comparative Anatomy, Physiology and Surgery.—Prof. James L. Cabell.

Text Books.—Dalton's Physiology, Druitt's Modern Surgery, Agassiz's Methods of Study in Zoology, Agassiz and Gould's Principles of Zoology.

XI. School of Anatomy, Materia Medica and Botany.—Prof. J. Staige Davis.

Text Books.—Wilson's Anatomy, Dunglison's Therapeutics, Gray's Structural and Systematic Botany.

XII. School of Chemistry and Pharmacy.—Prof. S. Maupin

Text Books.—Fownes' Chemistry and Parrish's Pharmacy.

LAW DEPARTMENT.

In this Department there are two Schools, that of Common and Statute Law, and that of Equity, Mercantile, International and Constitutional Law and Government, and two classes, Junior and Senior, in each School.

XIII. School of Common and Statute Law.—Prof. John B. Minor.

Text Books.—Junior Class.—Blackstone's Commentaries, Chitty on Contracts.

Senior Class.—Stephen on Pleading, Kent's Commentaries, Law of Executors, &c. For Reference.—Va. Code of 1860, Brightley's Digest U. S. Statutes.

XIV. School of Equity, Mercantile, International and Constitutional Law and Government.—Prof. S. O. Southall.

Text Books.—Junior Class.—Vattel's International Law, Lectures on Government, Federalist.

Senior Class.—Smith's Mercantile Law, Greenleaf's Evidence, Barton's Suit in Equity, Adam's Equity.

EXAMINATIONS.

These are of three kinds—1. Daily oral examinations preceding each lecture and on the subject of the last. 2. The half yearly general examinations conducted in writing, and 3. The examinations for graduation. DEGREES.—There are I. That of Proficient in certain special departments of a School. II. That of Graduate in a School. III. That of Bachelor of Arts of the University of Va. IV. That of Master of Arts of the University of Va. V. That of Doctor of Medicine, and VI. That of Bachelor of Law. Degrees are only conferred after rigorous examination, for the most part in writing.

EXPENSES:

The following is an estimate of the expenses of an academic student for the session of nine months, exclusive of cost of text-books:

Matriculation and library fee. . . . .	$ 25 00
Room-rent, if two occupy the same room, each, . . . . .	15 00
Contingent deposit, . . . . .	10 00
Tuition fee in three schools, the usual number attended, . . . . .	75 00
Board, including diet, furniture of room and attendance, . . . . .	180 00
Deposit for fuel and lights, . . . . .	35 00
Washing, $1.50 per month—per session, say . . . . .	15 00
Infirmary fee, . . . . .	5 00
	<hr/>
	$360 00

This estimate will be slightly modified if the student enter more or fewer schools than indicated.

Law students pay $80 per session for tuition, and Medical students $110: consequently the estimate for the former is $365, and for the latter $395 per session.

All the foregoing items are payable in advance, except board and washing. One third ($60) of the board is required on admission, and the balance in equal instalments, at three and six months thereafter. Washing is paid for monthly, as the service is rendered.

The Contingent deposit is designed to cover contingent charges and assessments. These are generally small. The residue of this deposit is refunded to the student in the settlement of his account at the close of the session.

The Infirmary fee secures, in case of sickness, prescriptions at the University infirmary, and if needed, nursing by professional nurses, lodging, board and medical attendance by the physicians of the institution, free of additional charge.

No abatement is made in the matriculation and tuition fees and room rent, on account of late entrance; and no portion of the same is refunded, on account of withdrawal before the close of the session—unless the withdrawal be rendered necessary by ill health and occur before the first of March. The charges for board, fuel and lights and washing are estimated from the time of entrance.

PRIVILEGED STUDENTS. Ministers of the Gospel may attend the lectures without the payment of Professors' fees. So also, on certain conditions, may young men preparing for the ministry, if unable to pay.

MORALITY AND RELIGION. These are recognized as the foundation, and indispensable concomitants of Education. The discipline is sedulously administered with a view to confirm integrity, and to maintain a sacred regard to truth. Great efforts are made to surround the Student with religious influences, but experience has proved that the best way to effect this result is to forbear the employment of coercion to enforce attendance on religious exercises, which is entirely voluntary. Prayers are held every morning, in the Chapel, and Divine Service is performed, on Sunday, by a Chaplain selected in turn from the principal religious denominations. And by means of a Young Men's Christian Association, new comers are shielded as much as possible, from vicious connections, and the energies of those willing to engage in the Christian enterprises of the neighborhood are called into active exercise.
